

Jennifer Miles

Community Learning Coordinator II

Education and Training

Jennifer Miles is a Community Learning Coordinator in the Education and Training Division at Toronto and Region Conservation (TRCA) since 2014. She coordinates and implements programs focused on natural and cultural heritage, habitat creation and public engagement in environmental initiatives. The program's success has been attributed to working with a diverse set of government, education, and social service agencies within the Region of Peel. She helps to support the community needs and other agency's mandates. Her favorite part of the job is connecting the community members to their greenspace through educational programs, where they feel inspired and wanting to learn more.

Jennifer's education path started in 2002 at Sir Sanford Fleming College graduating with an Environmental Technician and Environmental Technologist Diploma. She then earned a Bachelor of Science in Environmental Science degree from the University of Guelph in 2008. During her education journey, she spent the summers working for TRCA. In 2003, she started working at TRCA within plant nursery spending the summer removing weeds to working with Restoration Services planting trees and shrubs across the GTA. She later started working with school and community groups in the Education team.

Jennifer currently lives in Brampton, and she loves taking her 18 month year old son and dog for nature walks across the GTA.
